Matrix Logic Expands Its Wireless DMS Suite by Releasing the First ECM Solution for the iPad

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16 - Matrix Logic Corp (http://www.matrix-logic.com), a long-time Open Text partner and integrator of Enterprise Content Management (ECM) solutions for law firms, corporate legal departments, government agencies and private businesses, has released a wireless eDOCS DM Client for the Apple iPad.

The WirelessDMS iPad Client is included in Matrix Logic's WirelessDMS Suite portfolio that is also known as the Open Text WirelessDMS for eDOCS by Matrix Logic. The iPad client is currently available as a downloadable app on the Apple App Store. With the purchase of the corresponding WirelessDMS server component iPad users can now access content from their corporate eDOCS DM repositories.

The WirelessDMS suite by Matrix Logic now consists of the following modules:

- iPad Client
- iPhone Client
- BlackBerry Client
- Microbrowser Module (for eDOCS DM access using WAP-enabled mobile devices)
- EmailService Module (functional eDOCS DM access via email)
- MobileSync Module (mobile eDOCS DM client)

"As an Apple Developer and a pioneer in document management software, Matrix Logic has anticipated the tremendous impact that the iPad will bring to consumers of corporate and business content. We are excited to bring an eDOCS DM wireless solution to market simultaneously with Apple's release of the iPad," said Mark Vilinskas, VP of Partner Programs at Matrix Logic. "Open Text eDOCS DM customers can now greatly enhance and leverage their investment in eDOCS DM solutions by providing iPad access to DM repositories."
